

Style Guide in KSS Node

Alumni, Featured News

Alumna Researching Women's Role in Global Change Wins Gates Cambridge Scholarship

Caroline Hamilton | March 5, 2020 |

Women's history is a lifelong passion for Rebecca Turkington (SSP' 17), an SFS alumna who will continue to build on her research exploring how women's movements drive global change while studying for her Ph.D. as a Gates Cambridge Scholar in the fall.

Rebecca Turkington (SSP' 17) has won a prestigious Cambridge Gates Scholarship to pursue a Ph.D. in history.

A graduate of Georgetown's Security Studies Program (SSP) and a former program associate at the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security (GIWPS), Turkington will use her scholarship to pursue doctoral studies in history at University of Cambridge, where she will explore how women's transnational organizing in the Middle East and North Africa has influenced global policy in the 20th century.

She now serves as the assistant director of the Women and Foreign Policy program at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), where she works on research related to gender and economic empowerment, political participation, security and global women's organizing.

"So Much to Teach Us"

Established in 2000 by a donation from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the Gates Cambridge Scholarship offers full-cost scholarships to students from all around the world on the basis of academic excellence, commitment to service and capacity for leadership.

Atoms

Basic components that can not be further broken down into a smaller functional component.

Alumni, Featured News

Alumna Researching Women's Role in Global Change Wins Gates Cambridge Scholarship

Caroline Hamilton

March 5, 2020

Women's history is a lifelong passion for Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17), an SFS alumna who will continue to build on her research exploring how women's movements drive global change while studying for her Ph.D. as a Gates Cambridge Scholar in the fall.

Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17) has won a prestigious Cambridge Gates Scholarship to pursue a Ph.D. in history.

A graduate of Georgetown's Security Studies Program (SSP) and a former program associate at the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security (GIWPS), Turkington will use her scholarship to pursue doctoral studies in history at University of Cambridge, where she will explore how women's transnational organizing in the Middle East and North Africa has influenced global policy in the 20th century.

She now serves as the assistant director of the Women and Foreign Policy program at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), where she works on research related to gender and economic empowerment, political participation, security and global women's organizing.

"So Much to Teach Us"

Established in 2000 by a donation from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the Gates Cambridge Scholarship offers full-cost scholarships to students from all around the world on the basis of academic excellence, commitment to service and capacity for leadership.

Molecules

Combinations of atoms.

Alumni, Featured News

Alumna Researching Women's Role in Global Change Wins Gates Cambridge Scholarship

Caroline Hamilton

March 5, 2020

Women's history is a lifelong passion for Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17), an SFS alumna who will continue to build on her research exploring how women's movements drive global change while studying for her Ph.D. as a Gates Cambridge Scholar in the fall.

Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17) has won a prestigious Cambridge Gates Scholarship to pursue a Ph.D. in history.

A graduate of Georgetown's Security Studies Program (SSP) and a former program associate at the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security (GIWPS), Turkington will use her scholarship to pursue doctoral studies in history at University of Cambridge, where she will explore how women's transnational organizing in the Middle East and North Africa has influenced global policy in the 20th century.

She now serves as the assistant director of the Women and Foreign Policy program at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), where she works on research related to gender and economic empowerment, political participation, security and global women's organizing.

"So Much to Teach Us"

Established in 2000 by a donation from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the Gates Cambridge Scholarship offers full-cost scholarships to students from all around the world on the basis of academic excellence, commitment to service and capacity for leadership.

Organisms

Combinations of molecules (and atoms).

Alumni, Featured News

Alumna Researching Women's Role in Global Change Wins Gates Cambridge Scholarship

Caroline Hamilton

March 5, 2020

Women's history is a lifelong passion for Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17), an SFS alumna who will continue to build on her research exploring how women's movements drive global change while studying for her Ph.D. as a Gates Cambridge Scholar in the fall.

Rebecca Turkington (SSP'17) has won a prestigious Cambridge Gates Scholarship to pursue a Ph.D. in history.

A graduate of Georgetown's Security Studies Program (SSP) and a former program associate at the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security (GIWPS), Turkington will use her scholarship to pursue doctoral studies in history at University of Cambridge, where she will explore how women's transnational organizing in the Middle East and North Africa has influenced global policy in the 20th century.

She now serves as the assistant director of the Women and Foreign Policy program at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), where she works on research related to gender and economic empowerment, political participation, security and global women's organizing.

"So Much to Teach Us"

Established in 2000 by a donation from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the Gates Cambridge Scholarship offers full-cost scholarships to students from all around the world on the basis of academic excellence, commitment to service and capacity for leadership.

Templates

Combinations of organisms (and molecules and atoms).

Alumni, Featured News

Alumna Researching Women's Role in Global Change Wins Gates Cambridge Scholarship

Caroline Hamilton | March 5, 2020 |

Women's history is a lifelong passion for Rebecca Turkington (SSP' 17), an SFS alumna who will continue to build on her research exploring how women's movements drive global change while studying for her Ph.D. as a Gates Cambridge Scholar in the fall.

Rebecca Turkington (SSP' 17) has won a prestigious Cambridge Gates Scholarship to pursue a Ph.D. in history.

A graduate of Georgetown's Security Studies Program (SSP) and a former program associate at the Georgetown Institute for Women, Peace and Security (GIWPS), Turkington will use her scholarship to pursue doctoral studies in history at University of Cambridge, where she will explore how women's transnational organizing in the Middle East and North Africa has influenced global policy in the 20th century.

She now serves as the assistant director of the Women and Foreign Policy program at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR), where she works on research related to gender and economic empowerment, political participation, security and global women's organizing.

"So Much to Teach Us"

Established in 2000 by a donation from the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, the Gates Cambridge Scholarship offers full-cost scholarships to students from all around the world on the basis of academic excellence, commitment to service and capacity for leadership.

Real life style guide example

<https://georgetown-university.github.io/atomic-experiments/kss-node/guide/index.html>

